What is AAI?

The Authentication and Authorization Infrastructure (AAI) is a combination of all academic institutions in Switzerland under the leadership of SWITCH (the internet service provider of Swiss higher education institutions). All participating institutions have agreed to trust each other regarding their user registrations. Each member of a Swiss educational institution can use their AAI login (at their home university) to access accordingly included online resources, such as library catalogues or learning platforms. These resources can be provided by their own institution or by other colleges and educational institutions in Switzerland or third party providers.

Functionalities

- Direct use of numerous online resources in all Swiss post-secondary educational institutions
- Single sign-on: a single login (consisting of the user name and password) suffices
- Automatic access to protected resources based on the study course / subject or similar information
- Normally no generation of own user profiles, since the data of the registered person are also available via AAI as needed (name, e-mail address, study field etc.)

Benefits

- Security with similar registration for various online resources
- Comfort and efficiency due to single sign-on: no management of numerous user names and passwords

When can I use AAI?

As a member of a Swiss higher education institution, you "automatically" have a SWITCHaai account and therefore access to the online resources of the digital tools ADAM, auktiOpro, OLAT etc. and other services such as the research database(s) or poster printing services.

This website lists the other online resources which you can use with this AAI access information:

Disadvantages

- Complete logout is only possible by closing the browser.
- Complicated work in several different logins (e.g. if several students are sitting at the same screen during group work): If another user wants to log in, the internet browser has to be completely closed each time.
